Mattapoisett Students Honor the American Flag

By Jean Perry

The vision of the American flag waving and swaying in the sky can swell the heart on a day like Tuesday, June 14, which has for 100 years now been observed as Flag Day. And with Americans still reeling from tragedy over the weekend, the flag at Center School in Mattapoisett still at half-mast, students from Old Hammondtown and Center School gathered outside on this Flag Day morning to admire the red, white, and blue, and to ponder those stars and stripes and what the flag symbolizes for us as a nation.

"The land of the free, the home of the brave," Principal Rose Bowman reminded the students and a gathering of community members and parents joined together for the occasion.

"Please think about how fortunate you are to be a citizen of the United States," Bowman said. "Put this picture in your mind and let it lead your way as you travel into adulthood."

Bowman gave a warm and emotional thank you to those gathered, as well as three members of the American Legion Florence Eastman Post 280 who were present for the Flag Day celebration.

Legion Commander Michael Lamoureux led the students in the Pledge of Allegiance, and the Old Hammondtown band followed with its rendition of the National Anthem.

Students from each grade had something musical to contribute, singing a number of patriotic-themed songs that many sang along to.

"I wish I had a drone so I could see an aerial view of this," said a proud Bowman, saying she was overwhelmed by the community support that morning and the coming together of the two schools.

After the celebration, Bowman spoke candidly about the event.

"It's just so important for the children to remember to demonstrate their respect as a school community," Bowman said, "and that that visualization lives on with them forever."

As she told the students that day, "You are the future leaders of the world. You need to demonstrate that leadership."

After the Flag Day celebration, third-graders moved inside the cafeteria to participate in the annual senior breakfast when the students dress up as famous Americans and share their knowledge with the seniors from the neighboring Council on Aging.

"We never forget that we wouldn't have this wonderful building ... without our seniors," said Bowman. "And this is our way to continue to say thank you. We know how lucky we are."

SHARKS!

By Marilou Newell

Imagine, if you can, a shark 20 feet long, hundreds of pounds of muscle and bones, and whose brain has developed over eons of time for one purpose and one purpose alone – to hunt.

That is the job of sharks across the globe regardless of their size. And the mere utterance of the word 'shark' evokes a singular response from humans – panic. That is, unless you are Dr. Gregory Skomal, well-known shark expert, frequent contributor on the Discovery Channel, and Marion resident.

On June 10, the Marion Natural History Museum hosted a program that featured Skomal as the guest speaker. Addressing a group of about 40 attendees at the Marion Music Hall, Skomal's presentation sought to educate while gaining mindshare that sharks are far more complex than simple eating machines.

Skomal said that until recently, the study of sharks was pretty limited. They were nearly impossible to track, their behavior unseen except for those few who may have had the misfortune of a close encounter or if the fish surfaced to pursue prey. But, in 2009, an uptick in shark migration north, along with the development of sophisticated tracking tools that employ acoustic telemetry with satellite based technology, Skomal and his team began to learn much more.

Skomal said the Atlantic White Shark Conservancy, of which he is closely connected, tags sharks allowing researchers to study the feeding and migratory patterns of sharks. He said, in 2015, AWSC tagged and/or identified 141 sharks, 41 from the previous year. One of the more fascinating aspects of tracking the sharks Skomal shared was the absence of feeding activity. The researchers learned that sharks simply bite their prey and wait for it to bleed out, descending into the depths where feeding takes place.

With more than 40 years of protection in the northeast, seal populations have soared, Skomal told the group.

"Seals are now rebounding. There are resident populations in the Weweantic River and in Sippican," said Skomal. "That's a whole lot of dinner. This is why we have this emergence of white sharks – new cafés."

As seals move closer to shore in July and August, Skomal said the sharks move with them into waters as shallow as 5 feet deep. However, Skomal said, the white shark is a more temperate animal, feeding at cooler lower depths, perhaps 10,000 feet down.

"They go to dark water where the seals can't see them and they wait," Skomal said.

Skomal said receivers have been set up along the eastern seaboard primarily in Florida, but now with a new concentration of sites in the northeast. These acoustic arrays help cities and towns manage human activity on beaches while also providing scientific data on the animal's behavior. He hopes to receive funding to set up receivers in Sippican Harbor and near Aucoot Cove, scene of the July 25, 1936 fatal encounter between a young swimmer and a great white shark.

Another organization Skomal is affiliated with is Osearch. On the website www.osearch.org, you can view the tracking information for a variety of marine species including the great white shark. The goal of the data collection is to "aid in conservation and education."

"All these steps are baby steps," Skomal concluded. "It lays the groundwork for building on technology."

He said that in a couple of weeks the Discovery Channel will air a program on sharks with Skomal providing research information and, yes, he'll be in the program. With an impressive command of the subject matter and an engaging, easy style, Skomal brought to light the importance of his ongoing work – to track and study white sharks. And, although most sharks are not aggressive towards humans, his fear is "a young juvenile shark doing something."

For more information on great white sharks or other marine animals, you may visit www.atlanticwhiteshark.org or www.mass.gov Department of Marine Fisheries. And don't forget to look for Skomal's show on the Discovery Channel.

RMS Hosts 23rd Annual Concert

Rochester Memorial School

By Marilou Newell

It's an amazing sound when you put together 150 music students who have studied their musical scores, practiced endless hours, and pay close attention to their instructors. And so it was on June 10 when Rochester Memorial School hosted the 23rd annual summer concert, a syncopated collaboration between this local school and the elementary schools of Martha's Vineyard.

Larry Stone, retired musical director from Martha's Vineyard, used to fly to work everyday from his Acushnet home to the school on the Vineyard where he was the music teacher. He was familiar with RMS and, in a moment of inspiration, imagined a program that would bring together the music students from Vineyard elementary schools with those from Rochester, giving the students a richer musical experience. That was 23 years ago – 23 wonderful years of music education and just plain fun.

RMS Music Instructor Christine Williamson, whose long tenure at RMS is also 23 years, said, "It's a cool thing for the kids to play their instrument with other students, make new friends, enhance the learning experience..." She said the annual concert is a highlight of the school year for all the students and teachers at RMS.

As the students prepared for the concert, the music instructors took turns going over various pieces of music reminding the musicians, "Cymbals, you are the most important part," or, "Tubas, don't run away from us," or simply clapping out the beat, "One and two and three and four."

The Vineyard schools participate in year-round fundraising, Stone said, that allows the students to travel to Rochester. About every two years, the Rochester students visit the vineyard, Williamson said.

The students played eight pieces – ranging from classical to contemporary – that entertained the entire school while demonstrating the full range of their musical chops. Bravo!

Mattapoissett Fire and Marine Rescue unit responded to several water-related incidents.

Friday found the first responders searching for a person yelling for help in the vicinity of Dyar Road near Mattapoissett Harbor. Chief Andrew Murray said in a follow-up interview, "Within seven minutes the fire rescue team had a visual on..." the 67-year-old man. He said the man was 400 to 500 yards off shore. He was transported back to the town's wharf where the ambulance was waiting to treat the boater for hypothermia and exposure, Murray said.

Then came Saturday when, for the better part of the day, the department aided in the search of a missing boater. By Sunday morning, as hope faded that it would continue to be a rescue mission, the Mattapoissett FD continued to search.

The U.S. Coast Guard called off the rescue mission around 10:00 am.

Murray said he had not received any official information on the boater other than that the body was recovered near the Cape Cod train bridge spanning the canal, and that they believe the male boater went in the water between Wareham and Marion.

Also on Sunday around 10:45 am, Murray said the rescue boat responded to a call for help with the message the boat was taking on water off Ned's Point. When the rescue team arrived at the location, they found the boater in the water clinging to his boat.

"It was a Boston Whaler. They don't sink, but the boat was indeed filled with water," Murray said. He also said the boater's phone was in a waterproof case which allowed the person to place the 911 call, but that the 24-year-old male was not wearing a life jacket.

Of his department, Murray said, "We are pretty well prepared ... the taxpayers support us." He said that during an emergency as many as 34 responders may show up and that response times are generally around two minutes.

The department is made up of staff and volunteers who are all certified as first responders. Murray also said that he has three paramedics and nine EMTs on staff.

Symphonic Concert a 'Celebration of the Sea'

By Ashley Perry

Spectators had a 'whale of a time' at the Tri-County Symphonic Band's 14th Annual Benefit Pops Concert this past Sunday at the Tabor Academy in Marion.

Under the baton of Philip Sanborn, music director of the Tri-County Symphonic Band for the past 10 seasons, the ensemble delivered a performance with such vibrancy and excitement that one couldn't help dancing in their seat.

This year's theme, "Celebration of the Sea," was inspired by where the group rehearses. According to Sanborn, "We've been rehearsing fifteen yards from the sea all these years. Why don't we dedicate this [concert] to the sea?"

Pops concerts such as this characteristically program popular pieces as well as light classical music, making them a great way to introduce oneself to the world of classic band repertoire in a casual way. Tri-County's program featured nautical selections, including swashbuckling sea chanties, maritime marches, and a premiere work.

Now in its 54th season, the Tri-County Symphonic Band has been dazzling audiences and enriching the cultural life of Southeastern Massachusetts since 1962. The musicians come together every Tuesday evening at the Fireman Performing Arts Center to rehearse, some coming

As stated in the concert program, "the primary aim of the organization has been to make live performances of quality concert band repertoire available in the community and to give musicians a chance to share their love for the art of making music."

One of the highlights of the program was Robert W. Smith's Song of Sailor and Sea. The Tri-County Symphonic Band delivered the piece with great character and style, especially the percussion section with their extensive feature that included whale sounds, rattling chains, and a ship's bell. ocean sounds the audience heard came from the band or the Sippican Harbor just outside the tent.

Another highlight was the premiere of An Evening Sail on Buzzard's Bay written for the group by Rochester's own John Wallace. The peaceful composition well captured the mood of a tranquil sail over glassy waters. The symphonic band also performed selections from Horner's Titanic and Zimmer's Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End to the audience's delight, and also featured a virtuosic performance by alto saxophonist, Michael Raposo. Raposo, currently a student at the Hartt School of Music, gave a well-executed performance of Carnival by Philip Sparke with his beautiful tone and excellent technique.

And finally, no Pops concert would be complete without John Philip Sousa's The Stars and Stripes Forever, an audience favorite and a classic finale to a successful concert. When asked what he thought the audience would like best, Sanborn responded with, "Everything ... It's all good!"

All proceeds from the concert will benefit the scholarship fund of the Tri-County Music Association. This association is dedicated to "encourag[ing] our young people to pursue careers in music education or as instrumentalists by providing them an opportunity to perform and by awarding scholarships." The association also offers summer music study grants to high school students and awards a total of $12,000 each year.

Katrina Arabie, a 2015 recipient of the John R. Pandolfi Scholarship and member of the Tri-County Symphonic Band, expressed her appreciation: "I would like to express my gratitude for the opportunity to play at the Benefit concert. I received the scholarship in 2015 which helped further my education at the University of North Texas. The ensemble provided me with many connections to other music educators in the area."

The Tri-County Music Association and the Tri-County Symphonic Band are true gems to the community, and in the words of trumpet player Roger Haber, dedicated to "keep music live and alive." From the abundance of supporters at Sunday's concert, it is clear that the band is treasured by the community as well.

Rochester Annual Town Meeting

By Jean Perry

With a turnout exceeding the required 100 needed to build a quorum, which Greenwood "Woody" Hartley made sure was noted for the record, the Rochester Annual Town Meeting on June 13 succeeded in passing a number of articles with little to no discussion. However, a couple of zoning bylaw amendments required further explanation for some residents fired up over First Amendment Freedom of Speech rights. Another personnel bylaw was amended on the floor, and a citizen petition to place strict limitations on two-family conversions was unanimously postponed indefinitely.

Although both easily passed the 2/3 vote requirement, two zoning bylaw changes pertaining to signage regulations elicited some debate from residents concerned mostly about political signs, which are required to be removed from properties within 48 hours after an election.

"Most of these regulations are already in effect and they're scattered all over..." said Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson, specifying that the bylaw amendments change very little about current regulations. Article 22 simply sought to organize the bylaws and omit redundancies between different board regulations. "What we're trying to do is make things smoother.... We're not taking anybody's rights away."

Article 23 was a follow-up to Article 22, which inserted definitions and omitted outdated language from the signage bylaw.

Article 14 brought Highway Department and Fire Department employee, as well as representative of the Personnel Board, Harrison Harding to the microphone to speak out about the proposed amendment to the personnel bylaw to eliminate the existing sick day buyback which pays non-union employees 50% of their pay rate for each unused sick day upon retirement or resignation.

Harding said first that the town meeting warrant, which stated that the Board of Selectmen along with the Personnel Board sponsored the article, was misleading.

"It was never discussed by the Personnel Board at all," said Harding. He proposed amending the article to apply the change to new hires only, as well as language that would allow current non-union employees to carry their unused sick time over with them should they switch employment positions within the town.

Woody Hartley said he found Harding's approach "fair, reasonable, and perhaps appropriate," before town meeting voted to accept Harding's amendment to the article. The article passed with the amendment with only just a few 'nays.'

With a decisive vote, Town Meeting voted unanimously to indefinitely postpone Bradford Estates resident Tobias Paulo's citizen's petition to ban two-family conversions within 1,200 feet of the nearest single-family house, roughly a quarter-mile distance.

The Planning Board held its public hearing for Paulo's article and voted not to recommend it. Voters sided with the Planning Board on the matter.

Also during Town Meeting, voters adopted a proposed bylaw regulating the withdrawal of water from any ponds, streams, surface, or sub-surface water in the Town of Rochester. The other three towns that are part of the Mattapoisett River Valley Water Supply District also adopted their own versions of the bylaw to protect drinking water sources from possible contamination.

The article stems from semi-recent complaints by the Towns of Mattapoisett and Fairhaven over local

This new bylaw prohibits the withdrawal of water within the town into vehicle tanks or tanks contained in any vehicle. A permit may be issued by the town, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, or the U.S. government, the article specified.

The bylaw set a penalty of $100 for a first-time violation and $500 for subsequent violations.

In all, 23 of the 25 warrant articles were adopted, including the reduction of the Annual Town Meeting quorum back down from 100 to 75; adoption of the FY2017 operating budget of $20,403,762; and the purchase of an ambulance for $240,000.

The Special Town Meeting article to transfer $67,318 from the town stabilization fund into the snow and ice removal account also passed.

Developer Rectifies Solar Screening

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

Clean Energy Collective was ordered during the June 1 meeting of the Rochester Planning Board to install fence screening around the Mary's Pond side of the solar farm under construction off Perry's Lane before the next meeting or else the board would re-open the public hearing, which would essentially halt progress on the project. Developer Jay Myrto complied with the order, and on June 6, the Planning Board gave the nod to continue the construction of the solar arrays at the site.

The 7-foot pressure-treated stockade fence was installed as promised to Chairman Arnold Johnson's satisfaction.

"The screening is in place; they finished today," said Johnson. "I was out there on-site yesterday. It does block the view of the panels."

Johnson said the fence screening, which was proposed to enhance the screening that a staggered row of shrubs did not accomplish, was sufficient in the board's opinion.

"I appreciate the help in that," Johnson told Myrto. "It's done, it looks nice ... we got what we Planning Board member Ben Bailey commented that the fence looks "good," like a "quality fence."

"We're satisfied," said Bailey.

The board agreed to simply make a note as a minor change to the plan and not re-open the public hearing for the matter.

"You guys can continue," said Johnson.

In other matters, the board appeared pleased with a proposed commercial building slated for Cranberry Highway on a lot owned by Dale and Laura Ann Briggs.

During the informal pre-submission conference that evening, Mr. Briggs described the project, saying he planned to build a couple of condominiums at the site and the remaining part of the building would be for storage for his equipment and storage rental bays.

The board scheduled a site visit and the site plan review application will be duly advertised in the meantime.

"I feel as though it looks pretty clean and neat," said acting Chairman Gary Florindo, sitting in for Johnson who recused himself from the discussion.

Bailey asked Briggs if he would be building a unisex restroom inside the common area of the rental space, and then added that he himself, for a project he was involved with, had to construct separate male and female bathrooms because unisex bathrooms are no longer allowed, according to Bailey.

"Just put in a women's room," said Planning Board member Lee Carr. "Anyone can use it now."

"Move quick," Bailey said to Briggs, "because pretty soon you're going to need a third bathroom for people who don't 'feel right.'"

Also during the meeting, the board held a brief discussion with representatives of Meadowatt, developers of a solar farm located on Marion Road. Johnson said that due to the late receipt of relevant documents, he was not prepared to act on the matter that night. The hearing was continued until June 28.

In other matters, the board held an informal meeting to discuss an expansion at 428 Walnut Plain Road, owned by Kristina and Ryan Bacchiocchi. The

RDA Or NOI – That Is The Question

Mattapoisett Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

The June 13 meeting of the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission had a long two-page agenda. While there were hearings that moved along swiftly, there were others that came to a snail's pace. One hearing, a seemingly simple Request for Determination of Applicability for a driveway paving project, was one such hearing.

Marcia Waldron, 7 Dexter Lane, came before the commission seeking a Negative determination for her RDA filing. Waldron plans to pave a 12.5- by 48-foot section of her driveway.

Before opening the hearing up to public comment, Rogers told the audience that the commission was only looking to determine if Waldron's request was a RDA or if it should be a Notice of Intent.

Abutter Maryanne Brogan, 10 Dexter Lane, objected.

Brogan had submitted a letter requesting that Waldron file a costly NOI versus a RDA with accompanying engineered stormwater calculations. She contends that drainage issues will affect her property negatively if Waldron's driveway is paved.

There ensued minutes of discussion with Brogan asserting that the original developer of the cul-de-sac development was not allowed to pave the driveway due to a ruling by DEP.

Rogers said of Waldron's driveway, "There is very little difference between compacted stone dust and asphalt ... runoff would not be impacted."

Brogan pushed harder.

Brogan said that when Waldron's house was built, truckloads of fill were brought in to raise it up and that, due to drainage concerns at that time, the developer had to put a retention pond on the property. She feared that a change from pervious to impervious surfaces would cause stormwater to drain onto her already very wet property. Brogan also said that she had called the DEP and had been told that any change to the driveway surface needed to be supported with engineering calculations.

Rogers didn't agree.

"We are here to determine if the request rises to a NOI notification versus an RDA," said Rogers. "We've never asked anyone to provide runoff calculations for a single driveway," he told Brogan. He explained that even four new homes with driveways did not trigger the necessity of runoff calculations.

Brogan retorted, "It's against the law to change your land and impact your neighbors."

Rogers responded, "Even if we require an NOI, we wouldn't be looking for calculations."

Several other abutters spoke on behalf of Waldron's application, saying they were not concerned with the paving plan, that stormwater runoff was not an issue at this location, and felt the paving project would have no impact on the area.

The commission voted to allow the RDA to be heard and rendered a Negative 2 determination.

As Brogan left the meeting, she told Conservation Agent Liz Leidhold she'd be filing an appeal in the morning.

Another RDA filing that seemed straightforward needed time to review. Dennis Arsenault, represented by David Davignon of N. Douglas Schneider and Associates, presented a request to have established wetland delineations accepted for the 10.3-acre site at the end of Snow Fields Road.

Mapping evidence supplied by Davignon showed a parcel with what he described as "two wetland systems" that dominated the drawing. He said that, in the past, Arsenault's land had been primarily accessed via Interstate 195.

Davignon asked for a one-month continuation in order to give the commission and Leidhold sufficient time to study the request, noting that his client was not in a received a Negative 3 ruling for the construction of a cantilevered addition to an existing porch.

Several abutters were in attendance, with one questioning the possibility of a stream running through the property, but not marked on Davignon's map, and another questioning if the property could be developed for commercial use. The application was continued until July 11.

In the NOI category of hearings, William Macropoulos, 12 Howard Beach, filed an 'after-the-fact' NOI for a jetty repair that included a protrusion into the water that had not been part of the approved plan. The commission discussed remediation with Davignon, who represented Macropoulos. Rogers concurred that remediation might be acceptable since "jackhammering it out" didn't make sense.

Commission member Mike King suggested that Macropoulos might give the town shellfish seeds as worthy remediation, rather than simply paying money to the state for the error. Davignon said he would discuss that with his client as he asked for and received a two-week continuation.

Dennis Gallant, Brandt Island Road, received an Order of Conditions for the construction of a single-family home, as did Jane Finnerty, 19 Shore View Avenue, for repairs to a stone seawall.

William Farran, Angelica Avenue, sought an Order of Conditions for the construction of a new single-family home on a parcel previously deemed 'unbuildable.' The plans will include a home build to FEMA flood plain standards with the addition of fill to support the necessary pilings.

Rogers told Mark Manganello of LEC Environmental Consultants, "I want to confirm with the "Everyone calling ... I want guidance from our building inspector." The hearing was continued until June 27.

The Town of Mattapoissett in the personages of Highway Superintendent Barry Denham and Jon Connell of Field Engineering received Orders of Conditions for three NOI filings for roadway projects. concerning, said Rochester School Committee member Sharon Hartley on June 9 regarding Rochester Police Chief Paul Magee's recent proposal to selectmen to add a part-time school resource officer to Rochester Memorial School.

"It was actually kind of alarming that the chief of police would go to the selectmen before he would ... to the school committee," Hartley said.

Hartley was particularly concerned with the idea that the school would be providing funding for the position in light of recent cuts made to balance the FY17 school budget.

In Magee's defense, RMS Principal Derek Medeiros said the topic was touched on during a prior school budget subcommittee meeting, saying, "He was under the impression that you guys at least had some awareness of it."

Medeiros said Magee currently visits the school once a month to keep contact with the school administration and provide any insight that may benefit the school.

The proposal stems from a similar resource officer proposal at Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School, which seeks to add an officer to the school three days a week. Magee approached the town to see if there was interest in creating a full-time resource officer position by adding two days a week at RMS.

From a safety standpoint, said Medeiros, the proposal makes sense. From a budget standpoint, he said, "We felt that this was something that we could support."

"Having a police officer over here for safety and also to build relationships with the kids ... I say, hey, what a great opportunity."

Old Colony is still in the process of approving the position, and Medeiros said Magee is still waiting for an update from Old Colony. In the meantime, he sought an opinion from the Rochester Board of Selectmen.

"The educational piece would be great for the kids, I think," said School Committee member Meagan Bennett. "And to have some familiarity..."

Committee member Jennifer Kulak said, with lack of funding for a health teacher, she thought it was a great idea, especially with implementing a piece on drugs and drug abuse while building relationships with the students.

For Hartley, funding was an issue. She claimed that, traditionally, adding a resource officer would be funded by the police and through grants. Although she likes the idea of having an officer in the school, this year's budget proved disappointing to School Committee members when it came to having to go without.

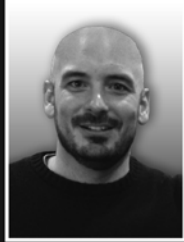

"We would have to have a serious discussion about what that means," said Hartley. "Do you want to find extra money and put in a police officer in the school or are there other priorities?"

Medeiros said next year, with the retiring of a number of top-tier employees, some funds might be opened up that could absorb the school's cost for the position. Business Administrator Patrick Spencer concurred.

Hartley said she does think the chief's premature proposal to selectmen was unintentional, but the process remains problematic.

"We don't want that to happen again," said Hartley.

"It looks like something we are willing to explore," said Chairman Tina Rood.

Superintendent Doug White said the chief will likely attend a future School Committee meeting to discuss the matter more in-depth and to provide information on the roles of the position as well as funding.

In a follow-up email, Magee said Hartley's concern had not been brought to his attention and declined to comment.

The next meeting of the Rochester School Committee is scheduled for September 8 at 6:30 pm in the Rochester Memorial School band room.

ORR to Rein in Cell Phone Use

Old Rochester Regional School Committee

By Jean Perry

Cell phones have become too much of a distraction at school, ORR Principal Michael Devoll told the Old Rochester Regional School Committee on June 8 before proposing to amend the student handbook to restrict personal cell phone use at school.

"We find students with cell phones in classes ... to be the single greatest distraction facing our students and the single greatest impediment to students' success in the classroom," said Devoll.

Allowing teachers to use their discretion is too gray of a cell phone use policy, said Devoll. As of September, cell phones must be kept inside lockers and can only be accessed during transition periods between classes, which can range from four to six minutes.

"The problem is the temptation of a cell phone in a pocket or on a desk," said Devoll. "It's become the single most distraction that we face."

Devoll admitted that he, eight years ago as vice principal, advocated strongly for cell phone use in school, thinking that would increase students' technology, organizational, and communication skills.

"So now we're back here eight years later saying it's become too large..." said Devoll, adding that the amount of time spent using cell phones borders on unhealthy and that the students are "victims, really, of this device in their classroom." He continued, "It's basically shut down a lot of learning..."

And you should see the cafeteria during lunchtime, added Devoll. More kids are on their cell phones on social media and playing games and using apps than interacting with their peers. It's also far too common, he said, to see students walking the halls preoccupied on their phones or sitting in study period with earbuds on.

Devoll acknowledged that this new policy isn't likely to be popular among the student body, especially since being separated from their devices might initially cause some angst.

Students will have a "three strikes and you're out" consequence for not leaving cell phones in their lockers, and after that the device will no longer be allowed in the building. Excessive breaking of the new policy could result in suspension.

"We're not saying 'no' to technology," emphasized Devoll, adding that ORR was one of the first schools on the South Coast to allow cell phone use in the school. "We're saying that we need a stronger academic focus and this does that."

The next meeting of the Old Rochester Regional School Committee is scheduled for September 7 at 6:30 pm in the junior high media room.

This year, five exchange students were welcomed with open arms and hearts to Old Rochester Regional from all corners of the world. (AFS). The AFS finds volunteer host families who are willing to house an exchange student. Exchange students are assigned host families based mostly on shared interests. AFS club supervisor Kim Corazzini said, "A family that was very interested in the arts might chose an exchange student with similar interests."

The AFS criteria for host families are broad, with the most important factor of all being whether or not the foreign exchange student will be placed into a safe, loving home. Host families aren't required to have a kid in high school nor do the exchange students need to have their own room (but a separate bed is a must!).

After exchange students are assigned to host families, it's time for them to make their flights across the ocean and into their homes for the next year. Most of the exchange students were, naturally, a little nervous about staying with a family they had never met before.

"Honestly, if I said I didn't feel the anxiety, or that I wasn't scared, that would be a total lie," said Marco Li of Hong Kong. "But after the first day, I knew that my host family were good people."

After the initial anxiety of arrival, the exchange students felt right at home here in America. For Egemen Öztürk of Turkey, however, the excitement completely overrode the anxiety. "I was so happy that I was standing on my feet by myself at literally the other side of the world," he said.

But across the board, the United States was perfect for meeting new people, as Louise Vis of the Netherlands explained.

"The best part of being in America was making new friends that I will have forever," said Vis. America also taught the exchange students invaluable lessons, Vis said. "I've become more mature."

Every country has its own nuances – whether they are its culture, its food, or the nature of interpersonal relationships. These small cultural details lead to what makes every country and its people unique, and by living in a new country, the exchange students were able to witness those differences firsthand.

The most common difference seemed to be the reduced level of freedom here in the Tri-Town. Li, Öztürk, and Josefin Bakken of Sweden all agreed.

"Teenagers in Sweden get so much more freedom. We can go out anytime, without really having to talk to our parents," said Bakken. Li and Bakken both said that the most important difference between America and their respective countries was the way people treat each other. America, they agreed, is a very open country.

"Because we live in a city, we aren't that close to each other. You guys live in a small town, and basically everybody knows each other," explained Li. "In Hong Kong, we aren't as nice to each other. We can be a bit cool sometimes, which makes it more difficult to be friends with a lot of people because we close ourselves up to new people."

Bakken felt the same about the apparent lack of warmth amongst people.

"I expected people to be very open, which they were," said Bakken. "You can talk to anyone, which is a big change from Sweden. Our subways are like libraries; they're so quiet."

Öztürk says his biggest cultural difference is the pastimes of teenagers, as well as the availability of transportation.

"Teenagers here do sports more than Turkish teenagers, but Turkish people hang out more than American teenagers," said Öztürk. "And transportation is so hard here. It is not hard at all in Turkey."

As for expectations of America, most were gained from TV, the Internet, and stereotypes. The most common, as one might easily guess, is the rude, overweight American. Öztürk, after his year here, said that from his experiences here, that stereotype didn't hold up.

"They [Americans] are more fit than I thought, and they are so nice!" he said.

Bakken said he had perceived American high school to be very similar to High School Musical.

"I remember the first day I came, people were wearing jerseys because they had a meet or a game, and I was like 'Oh My God, it's High School Musical.'"

To those of us who have experienced the U.S. education system first hand, it's clear that real American high school is very, very different (and slightly disappointing) compared to High School Musical, which is a sad fact Bakken very quickly learned.

And now that it's time for their sad departure, one can't help but wonder what things from America our exchange student friends will miss the most. Vis, Bakken, and Li all said that they'll never forget the people they met here. In addition to the people he met, Öztürk said that the thing he will miss most is his "host mom's cooking."

And although we must say our sad goodbyes, the exchange students who flew their way into the hearts of the school community in planes from all over the world will never be forgotten. They hold a special place in the heart of Old Rochester, and their smiling presences will be missed by those left here in America. Take it from AFS club supervisor Kim Corazzini, "Their friendship and cultural awareness is priceless."

On a happier note, Old Rochester's AFS program is one of the best in the state, and it recently received the "Top Global Learning Schools," which is awarded to schools that demonstrate "their commitment to international education." ORR was one of three schools in Massachusetts to receive the award.

This year has been incredibly noteworthy for the group. Because the school welcomed so many foreign exchange students into our community, the AFS was given a scholarship to send two students to another country for two weeks over the summer at no cost in a program called a 'Global Prep' exchange. AFS members who wished to be in the running for the scholarship were required to answer a few questions about why they would be the best fit for the trip. After review by a board of teachers, juniors Tessa Camboia and Colleen Garcia were selected. Both girls chose to go to Spain. The students will leave for their two-week cultural immersion on July 5.

The trip will take Camboia and Garcia around Spain, from Madrid to Segovia to Salamanca. The experience in Spain will resemble a long-term exchange in that it will require the students to stay with a host family they've never met. During their days, the exchange will allow its students an opportunity to attend Spanish courses, perform community service, and take mini field trips to learn about the history of Spain.

Of all places, why did the two students select Spain as their dream destination?

"I picked Spain out of all the countries available because it's always been a place I would dream about visiting and knowing that I would expand on my Spanish speaking and listening skills intrigued me," said Camboia. "I feel that being strong in a second language truly does benefit you in the future no matter the career one hopes to go into."

Both girls are equally excited, and Garcia explained what she's looking forward to the most.

"I'm most excited about immersing myself in the Spanish culture and connecting with my roots, as well as meeting so many amazing people as I am sure to!" said Garcia.

Next year, the AFS will continue pursuing its goal of educating the Old Rochester community of cultural differences around the world. Camboia summed up the importance of the AFS club nicely when she stated, "The AFS club is basically just a club where you allow yourself to learn about cultural differences and accept them. It empowers adolescents to break out of the shells and try new things."

If you have any questions about the AFS club in general, going on an exchange, or are interested in hosting an exchange student for a full or half year, please feel free to email AFS club supervisor Kim Corazzini at kcorazzini@orr.mec.edu for more information.

sports year for Old Rochester. Five teams finished up their seasons this week, with boys' tennis and baseball both making it to the final rounds of their respective state tournament. It has been another great year for Bulldog sports with a variety of teams finding success. Before the spring, the most notable tournament runs were made by the volleyball and basketball teams, while the girls' cross country team prevailed over all competitors to win a hard-earned state championship. Below is a recap of the final week of action for the spring.

Baseball: The Bulldogs faced Dedham High on the road in the second round of the D-3 State Tournament on Monday. Junior Sam Henrie pitched another good game, striking out six hitters in six innings before senior Bryant Salkind came on in the seventh to get the save. This performance allowed the 'Dogs to remain competitive throughout, and the team wound up winning 6-4 over their higher-ranked opponent to advance to the D-3 South semifinals. Junior Kyle Brezinski led the team with three hits, while fellow juniors John Breault (catcher) and Will Hopkins (centerfielder) added two, as did seniors Salkind (DH-Pitcher) and Hunter Parker (2nd baseman). The boys played Bourne in the semifinals on Thursday and won 4-3 on a walk-off RBI single by Henrie. He scored Hopkins, who hit a double, and then moved to 3rd on a sacrifice fly by Parker. On the mound, Salkind scattered five hits and four walks over seven innings to get the win. Henrie and Hopkins each had three hits, which led the team. Both junior players have been instrumental in the team's late-season success, and they were leaned on heavily once again in Sunday's D-3 South final against East Bridgewater. Henrie pitched well, flashing excellent command by striking out 10 and walking none. However, he allowed four runs on eight hits in a 4-2 loss. Sophomore Jake Asiaf's RBI triple was the lone extra-base hit. That hit scored freshman Adam Breault, and Asiaf later came around on a knock by Hopkins. Sunday's loss ended the team's magnificent run and a very productive season. Although seniors Parker, Salkind, and Jacob Fluegel will be missed, the Bulldogs have plenty of young talent moving forward and should be able to make an impressive state tournament run in Girls' Lacrosse: The Lady Bulldogs were away at Cohasset in the second round of the State Tournament on Monday afternoon. Unfortunately, they were defeated 19-3 to end their season. The team's goals came from sophomores Ali Hulsebosch and Maggie Adams and junior Emily Hiller. Despite the loss, the team had an extremely successful season (12-6, and 6-2 in SCC play) and looks to return quite a few top players including the three aforementioned girls as well as sophomore Maddie Cooney and freshman Gates Tenerowicz.

Boys' Track: Junior Danny Renwick competed in the 110m hurdles at the New England meet in New Britain, Connecticut on Saturday. Despite poor weather, Renwick finished sixth with a time of 15.43. That allowed him to cap off an incredible season as the top point-scorer on the 8-1 Bulldogs. Next season, the team will look to take aim at Dighton-Rehoboth's stranglehold on the South Coast Conference. Renwick will be supported by fellow rising seniors such as Eli Spevack, Jacob Cafarella, Ryson Smith, and Andrew Nadeau.

Boys' Tennis: The boys were home against Martha's Vineyard in the second round of the State Tournament on Monday. Sophomore Sam Pasquill and junior Caleb Jagoda won both their singles matches in a 4-1 win over the Islanders. The doubles teams of junior Josh Lerman and sophomore Jahn Pothier, along with junior Maxx Wolski and freshman Geoffrey Noonan, Pothier and Jagoda repeated as winners while junior Alex Bilodeau won at 2nd singles in a 5-0 victory that wound up being much easier than expected. The doubles pairings, which were held over from last match, continued their success. Finally, the boys ran into undefeated Dover-Sherborn in the finals on Friday. The anticipated match was held in a neutral zone in Scituate. Only the doubles team of Lerman and Pothier emerged successful, sadly, though Bilodeau took his competitor to a third set in a close match. Nancy Ann (Dodge) Dickson died peacefully in her sleep on June 8th, 2016.

She was born in New Bedford, Massachusetts on October 13, 1930, daughter of the late Gilbert and Elsie (MacLeod) Dodge and sister of the late Mary Ann Dodge. She grew up in New Bedford and graduated from New Bedford High School. Nancy attended the New England Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing in Boston where she graduated in 1951 as a Registered Nurse. It was while she was at The Deaconess that she met her future husband, James David Maxwell Dickson, who predeceased her on June 6th, 2011.

Nancy spent her entire professional career working as a nurse, first in hospital settings in Boston, Baltimore, New York and later in Wareham at Tobey Hospital as an on-call nurse in the operating room. She continued her career as a nurse in various private medical practices in Marion and Wareham, MA.

Nancy retired in 1986 and moved with her husband Jim to Northern Ireland where they enjoyed a full and active retirement at their home in the Mourne Mountains in County Down. Nancy rekindled her love of gardening in the Mournes and took pride in her flowers and beautiful window boxes.

which the Lady Bulldogs finished with a shining record of 20-4. The team has a strong base of talent to build on in the coming years, though it will miss the talents of Middleton and Bellefeuille, who have helped the team to be extremely competitive at all levels.

Keel Awards

The Wanderer is pleased to announce that we are soliciting nominations for our 21st annual "Wanderer Keel Awards." The yearly community service honor – which is presented to one Tri-Town resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area – will be announced in our July 28 edition, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting their contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these "unsung heroes."

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents, for at least five years, of Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – either directly to town residents, or indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities, or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people behind the scenes who remain otherwise anonymous, but provide crucial support to many town functions. Like the keel of a ship, which keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an "even keel."

She enjoyed the company of many relatives and friends there and she and Jim traveled extensively in Ireland, the U.K., and Europe. Their home was a frequent destination point for many of their friends and relatives from Marion and around the U.S.

As a working mother, Nancy set an excellent example for her three daughters of how to successfully balance career and family. She is survived by her daughters Jane Dickson and her husband Joe Pickett of Salem, MA; Susan Dickson and her husband, Adam Bukolt of Berlin, Germany, and Sara (Lynne) Dickson and her husband, Darryl Medina, of Marion, MA. Six grandchildren also survive her: Kevin and Conor Pickett; Kendra, Allison and Max Medina; and Oskar Bukolt.

Nancy will be remembered for her hospitality, excellent cooking, and amazing Christmas Eve celebrations in Marion—especially the scalloped oysters, Swedish meatballs, and abundance of Christmas cookies!

A service of remembrance and celebration of Nancy's Life will be held on Friday August 19, 2016 at 1PM at Saint Gabriel's Episcopal Church in Marion.

Donations in Nancy's memory may be made to support the work of Missions for Humanity (www.missionsforhumanity.org) where her daughter, Sara, and grandchildren, Kendra, Allison and Max have participated in medical mission trips to Tanzania. Joyce Marie Corbett West, who generously shared her infectious spirit and her wide range of talents with her communities in Washington, D.C. and Marion, Massachusetts, died peacefully in Marion on June 2, 2016 surrounded by her loving family. She was 85.

Joyce lived a fun and meaningful life. She was kind, smart and generous, with a lovely smile, a hearty laugh and a knack for being there and helping out her family, her colleagues, her church and her community. Born on March 21, 1931 in tiny Minooka, Pennsylvania outside Scranton, Joyce was the sixth of seven children born to Mary and Martin Corbett. Her family eventually settled in the Chevy Chase neighborhood of Washington, D.C., where Joyce flourished. It was there, while working for Pan American World Airways after graduating from nearby Immaculata College, that she met the love of her life, George Bruce West. Joyce and Bruce married on January 29, 1955, and they went on to spend an adventurous 60 years together before Bruce died on August 20, 2015.

In 1956, Joyce and all four of her sisters found themselves amid a remarkable situation that became permanent, and wonderful, family folklore. That was the year, right smack in the middle of the Baby Boom, that Joy, as her family called her, and her four sisters were “expecting,” in the genteel parlance of the day. The five members of the celebrated “Class of 1956” quickly became a symbol of the Corbett Clan's rapid growth. Ultimately, they would count themselves among a staggering 35 first cousins!

While raising five children and supporting her husband as he ran a successful advertising agency, Joyce volunteered her help on the board of the Goodwill Industry of Washington, D.C. and at the various schools her children attended. She also was a docent at the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

In 1974, after nearly 20 years in Washington and about a dozen sublime summers in Marion, Joyce and Bruce moved their family north year-round, the better to enjoy the bucolic nature of the “Sands of Sippican,” as Bruce titled one of his books, and to show their children a less hectic way of life. Joyce jumped right in, immersing herself deeply within Marion's community, making friends, serving on countless boards, singing in the church choir at St. Gabriel's, directing and teaching at The Loft School, and eventually buying and running the small town's lone bookstore, The Bookstall.

Joyce was a Renaissance woman of heart and mind. She loved the land and the water, so she served on the board of the Sippican Lands Trust for 15 years and on the Marion Conservation Committee for 10 years. She loved gardening, so for about 20 years she was a member of the Marion Garden Discussion Group. Joyce was a voracious reader, so she served on the Elizabeth Taber Library Board for six years. She loved music and singing, so she sang with the Sippican Choral Society for roughly 20 years. The list of groups to which Joyce gave of her time and talents was seemingly endless: the Marion Visiting Nurse's Association Board for six years, the Sippican Historical Society for five years, and the Marion Foundation, where she was one of the original employees, focusing on membership and events.

Throughout it all, Joyce was most passionate about her family and friends, and she loved nothing so much as big family gatherings, spending time with her many pals and traveling with family and friends here, there and everywhere. She adored her beloved Bruce, their five children, seven grandchildren, one great granddaughter, her four sisters and two brothers, and all of her many nieces and nephews.

Survivors include four sons, George Bruce West III and his wife, Jeanie, of Peterborough, New Hampshire; Mark Corbett West and his wife, Cyndy, of Nottingham, New Hampshire; Jonathan Braitmayer West and his wife, Cassy, of Mattapoisett, Massachusetts; Charles Krug West and his wife, Liz, of Rochester, Massachusetts; and a daughter, Margaret Wendy West and her wife, Rebecca Leeman, of Portland, Maine. Joyce also leaves seven grandchildren, Ian Derrick West, Taylor Graham West, Robert Braitmayer West, Reilly

Raiders of the Lost Ark: The Adaptation.* Showing at the Brattle Theater in Cambridge on June 20 at 9:30pm.

At certain points while he was watching Eric Zala's six-years-in-the-making shot-for-shot remake of his classic 1981 adventure, I'm sure Steven Spielberg breathed a sigh of relief that no kids got killed trying to reproduce the hairier sequences of his film.

By now, Raiders of the Lost Ark: The Adaptation has become legendary, a film far more talked and read about than actually seen. For those who don't know the back-story: In 1982, a trio of Mississippi kids ranging in age from 11 to 13 — Eric Zala, Chris Stropoulos, and Jayson Lamb — decided to remake Raiders from start to finish. Six years later, after much turmoil and behind-the-scenes drama, the film was completed, was screened for an appreciative local audience, and then disappeared, shown only occasionally when one of the since-grown kids felt like breaking out the video to show to friends. Somehow, years later, it was shown at a popular film festival, and here we are.

Spielberg's Raiders is my favorite film of all time, and I would be the first to lead a torch-bearing mob to the gates of Paramount if the studio announced an actual remake. But this remake, started by prepubescents and finished by battle-hardened veterans of DIY filmmaking, is consistently charming and even exciting on about the same level as the original. When I was a kid and saw Raiders for the first time, I laughed with happy glee at the whole desert truck chase sequence. When I watched the same sequence being done by teenagers — with no stuntman, no trench dug beneath the truck for safety, no nothin' — I laughed with even happier glee: The crazy young bastards did it. Unlike a studio-mandated remake, this was done for love, not money, and the love — not only for Raiders but for filmmaking itself — glows in every shot.

The actors — Stropoulos as Indiana Jones, Angela Rodriguez as Marion, Zala as Belloq — famously get visibly older (or younger) depending on the scene.

But that just gives us a deeper appreciation for the commitment required in this act of devotion. Zala in particular nails Belloq, suavely re-enacting Paul Freeman's slimy but conflicted archaeologist. It's obvious Zala and editor/cinematographer Jayson Lamb spent countless hours getting the Spielberg technique right — the smash-cut from the Ark's lid thudding to the ground to Marion falling off her chair; the backlit medallion in the Map Room; the shot of a mournful Indy looking out the door at the Imam's place (a shot that always got to me in the original).

Very often, the homemade solutions to duplicating a multimillion-dollar studio film match the ingenuity Spielberg showed in the original. In the shot from Indy's POV, looking up from the Well of Souls to Belloq and his Nazi posse sitting smugly up top and looking down on him, the sky must not have been the shade of bright blue that Zala wanted, so there's a blue tarp behind Belloq and company. That blue tarp sums up everything I love about this film. A damn blue tarp. I just have to give it up for that.

Yes, Jock's airplane becomes Jock's motorboat, the Nazi monkey becomes a Nazi puppy (Snickers, to whose memory the film is dedicated), and the brawl atop and underneath the flying wing was, probably wisely, skipped over. Otherwise, though, the fidelity to detail is astonishing. The sadistic Toht (Ted Ross) is seen on the airplane reading the same issue of Life magazine that Ronald Lacey hid behind in the original. Chris Stropoulos inflects such lines as "It's a date. Ya eat 'em" with such precise Harrison Ford mannerisms it goes past mimicry into channeling Ford. The swinging-mirror gag is there (right down to the cutaway to an exterior shot of the ship as Indy howls); the coathanger gag is there. These touches add up, and there are times when you forget you're watching a skillful teenage re-enactment and start seeing it simply as Raiders of the Lost Ark, with different faces, and seen through fresh eyes.

TriTOWN HAPPENINGS

Center School students gathered together with Old Hammondtown students by the Center School flagpole on the morning of Tuesday, June 14, to celebrate Flag Day. The OHS band played a number of tunes, while the Center School students sang patriotic songs and listened to Principal Rose Bowman read a series of poems and writings to remind the children of what the American flag stands for. Afterwards, the third-graders treated the seniors to the school's annual senior breakfast, when the children dress up and share information about their chosen historic figure with their guests. SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A heads-up alert to all free-spirited Ewes and Rams: Be wary of a deal that could result in compromising your independence. Check every detail before making a commitment.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) New facts emerge that help put an irksome workplace situation in perspective. Meanwhile, pay more attention to a family member who needs your wisdom and strength.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A slight setback in plans is nothing to worry about. Use this delay to deal with a number of matters you might have ignored for too long. Expect news from someone in your past.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're entering a period of stability. Use it to straighten out any outstanding problems related to a very personal situation. Also, pay closer attention to financial matters.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) As much as you love being a social Lion, you might well benefit from staying out of the spotlight for a while. You need time to reflect on some upcoming decisions.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A difficult family situation improves, thanks to your timely intervention. You can now start to focus more of your attention on preparing for a possible career change.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) An on-the-job change works to your benefit by offering new opportunities. It's up to you to check them out. Meanwhile, a stalled romantic situation starts up again.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) That flare-up of Scorpion temperament cools down, leaving you more receptive to suggestions about changes that might need to be made in your personal life.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) An unusual period of indecisiveness is a mite frustrating. But things soon clear up, allowing the sage Sagittarian to make those wise pronouncements again.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might feel that you know best, but it's not a good idea at this time to try to force your opinions on others. Best advice: Inspire change by example, not by intimidation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Some setbacks could affect your plans to fortify your financial situation. But things start moving again by early next week. Meanwhile, enjoy your resurgent social life.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Show that often-hidden steely spine of yours as you once again stand up to an emotional bully. You've got the strength to do it, especially as friends rally to your side.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your ruling planet, Mercury, endows you with a gift for writing. Have you considered penning the world's greatest novel?

Marion's Energy Management Committee

Marion's Energy Management Committee is pleased to announce that on June 7 the Board of Selectman approved an increase in the number of electric vehicles (EVs) to be requested through grant applications. The Board initially approved three EVs for municipal use; that number is now four. Funding for one EV was already received, and a Nissan Leaf was delivered in March 2016 for use by the Recreation Department. The first grant also covered costs for two high-speed charging stations, which are installed at the Town House and at the Atlantic Drive facility. Both are available for public use. Two of the three additional EVs, if grants are approved, will replace low-MPG, ex-police cruisers now used by the Board of Health and the Department of Public Works. The third will be used by the Council on Aging, reducing mileage on their large vans when only a few people require transportation. At least two additional charging stations would also be purchased using grant funds, which we hope will encourage more residents in our region to choose EVs. By replacing gas-guzzling vehicles with clean EVs, Marion is saving tax dollars, reducing greenhouse gas emissions (about 4 tons of carbon/car/year), and raising awareness of human-caused climate change. Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

My dog itches almost consistently in the summer and fall and loses hair over his back near his tail. A friend said it could be caused by fleas, but I rarely find more than one flea at a time. Any thoughts?

Your friend may be right. Many dogs and cats are allergic to flea saliva. All of the changes in your dog's skin may be caused by 1 flea bite per week. Cats with flea allergy dermatitis tend to get small scabs over their body. Treatment involves strict flea control in your home as well as on your pet. Talk to your veterinarian about Advantage, Frontline and Seresto.

"Healthy Parks Healthy People" initiative and the MA Libraries "Get Moving" Summer Reading program, the public is encouraged to join in the daily hikes and to walk or bike to the events with all routes available for PDF download at www.masswalkingtour.org.

This concert will feature a performance by local musicians Boodle Am Sheiks as well as the MA Walking Tour troupe. The Group will be hiking along the South Coast Bike Way between towns.

The concert tour features the music of Mandeville and Richards as well as Berklee College of Music alumni Amy Alvey and Mark Kilianski (Boston-based duo Hoot and Holler) with arrangements on guitar, banjo, harmonica, tin whistle, ukulele and fiddle accompanied by a brief talk on the philosophy behind the Walking Tour. After each day's hike, the troupe will perform free community concerts in towns along the Cape Cod Rail Trail, Myles Standish State Forest and towns along the South Coast Bikeway. Each two-hour program will include local musicians and artists from each town while promoting community-based cultural organizations and local support for the arts.

The Massachusetts Walking Tour sets forth on a grass roots level to organize local artists together with community based-organizations such as land conservation groups, hikers, nature lovers, musicians, artists and local cultural councils statewide – these concerts are conducted in outright support for community-based arts events sponsored on the local level.

Lemelson-MIT Excite Award

Tabor Academy educator, Karl Kistler, was recently awarded a Lemelson-MIT Excite Award. This award is given annually to a select group of educators across the country who have applied to receive a Lemelson-MIT InvenTeam grant for the following school year and have been selected as a finalist. Award recipients participate in invention education learning opportunities as part of an all-expense paid trip to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) for the Lemelson-MIT Program's annual EurekaFest, a multi-day invention celebration in mid-June. Drew Tanzosh, physics, will be representing Tabor at EurekaFest.

"Our engineering students are eager for the opportunity to create an underwater ROV to assist with data collection for our marine science classes. The collaboration we are planning with Tabor's Marine Science department provides us an opportunity to create a tool that can assist with research of our local waters, a project with real consequences to our town and to Tabor's growing curriculum and research. To be able to share ideas and learn from MIT educators, and other educators interested in invention, is an opportunity we just could Educators are selected for this award based on their capacity to lead a year-long, open-ended invention project with students at their school. At EurekaFest, Excite Award recipients meet and are inspired by current InvenTeams, teams of high school students, teachers and mentors that received grants of up to $10,000 each to invent technological solutions to real-world problems. Tanzosh will see the InvenTeam projects, learn more about the InvenTeam experience and attend hands-on workshops and discussions led by MIT professors about invention-unique technological solutions to real world problems.

leave the event prepared to ignite an interest among high school students in science, math, engineering and invention," said Leigh Estabrooks, invention education officer from the Lemelson-MIT Program. "They gain new techniques to empower their students through problem solving and encourage a sustainable culture of invention in their school and community."

Kistler, Chair of the Science Department at Tabor Academy, initiated the InvenTeam application process in the spring of 2016 and will be invited to submit a final application that will be due in September for the InvenTeam grant after Tabor's attendance at EurekaFest. Kistler and Tanzosh will work with the students [and mentors] throughout the summer to finalize Tabor's grant application. The team will also reach out to community members with expertise in fields related to the problem that the students plan to address through technological invention for insight and guidance on how their invention can best serve the community.

A prestigious panel of judges composed of educators, researchers, staff and alumni from MIT, as well as former Lemelson-MIT award winners, will assemble in the fall and select the final InvenTeam grantees.

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark
